Hello from A&K Australasia,

As our team continues to expand, I'm delighted to introduce you to Tracy Anderson, A&K's New Zealand Operations Manager. You might remember Tracy from A&K's reservations team but after a move back to New Zealand, we are thrilled to have her on-ground there.

With the growth of our team in New Zealand, we are even better equipped to service the unparalleled demand that has occurred with the increase in Air New Zealand's direct flights from Australia and the US to New Zealand. This provides an ideal option for US traveller's wanting to visit both countries Down Under in one trip.

I was lucky enough to visit New Zealand's stunning South Island recently which gave me the opportunity to reconnect with suppliers and see what's new. It was wonderful to be reminded of just how spectacular the South Island is and why people are so excited to travel halfway around the world to experience it. You can read more about the highlights of my trip below.

Lastly, I'd like to share some highlights from the travels of A&K Travel Specialist, Saadika Mahmood. A helicopter landing on Fox Glacier, a hands-on cooking experience at Hapuku Kitchen and whale watching in Akaroa made it an unforgettable journey.

I trust you enjoy this special New Zealand edition, and I hope it helps you sell this inspiring destination.

Kind regards,

Graham Wood
